Brainworks honoured

Brainworks, a London-based medical rehabilitation company, received two awards at the National Conference of the Brain Injury Association of Canada.

The special recognition award was given to the company for achievements in brain injury awareness and prevention.

The communication award was earned for articles published by Brainworks staff in several journals and the company's involvement in social media.

Founded 10 years ago, Brainworks provides multidisciplinary rehabilitation to an area that covers about half of the province of Ontario.
